IMAGERY

Imagery is the use of words and phrases that appeal to the senses of sight, hearing, touch, smell, and taste. Poets often use imagery to create vivid descriptions in only a few words.

Directions: In the chart, record examples of imagery from “Fall” and “Change” and note the sense or senses each example appeals to. Some examples have been done for you. Then answer the question that follows.

	Taste	Sight	Touch	Smell	Hearing
“Fall”
“Change”		“white”	“stings” “cold”

Compare the sensory experiences created by each poet. How are the experiences similar? How are the experiences different? Cite two details to support your analysis
